

Observation

Joint action of purposeful perception and thinking for the purpose of studying, recording, memorizing, understanding and/or evaluating what has been perceived. This behavior may last for years. The most vivid examples are scientific or supervisory observation. Reading and understanding an educational test or listening to a lecture basically belong to the category of observation.